ANGER OVER CRACKDOWN ON RIDEOUTS

Bikers upset as council secures injunction

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

BATTLE lines have been drawn after Harlow Council secured an injunction to ban unauthorised rideouts in the town.

Bikers from across the region have been angered by the move, which they say targets law-abiding motorcyclists.

But the council said the injunction is not about stopping responsible riders or drivers from enjoying using their vehicles in a lawful manner.

In a statement released this week, the council said it was sorry the injunction had "upset and angered the wider biking community", adding that it was never its intention to do so.

It stressed that the injunction would not apply to anyone:

- Riding bikes lawfully on the town's roads.
- Driving in a convoy or through the town.
- Learning to ride or teaching others to do so.
- Taking part in a charity event.

Charity football match in Marcel's memory

FRIENDS of a Harlow teenager who died in March have organised a charity football game in his memory.

The match will take place at Harlow Arena, the home ground of Harlow Town Football Club, tomorrow evening (Friday) to celebrate the life of 16-year-old Marcel Bellairs-Honiss.

Youth football referee Greig Williamson, who will jointly officiate the match, said: "Marcel adored the game of football and was very talented. He played for both Harlow Town Youth and Church Langley-based Frontiers Youth Panthers, who will play in the match tomorrow."

"The town has reacted strongly to the news and I would not be surprised if there are an awful lot of people there."

Cancelled

Details of the football game were announced shortly after a second rideout, which would have been held on Marcel's birthday, was cancelled.

Firefighter Mr Williamson, who lives in Great Plumtree, said: "Marcel's close friend Tyler Bull has taken it upon himself to organise this night to celebrate another one of his passions."

"Tyler has been exceptional in making arrangements."

"I handpicked the other officials - Danny Innes and Mark Taylor - as they knew Marcel so well."

The match kicks-off at 7pm, with doors opening at 6pm. Admission is £3 for adults and £1 for children. Proceeds from the match will be donated to Mind in West Essex.

Anne 'honoured and humbled' to receive Women For Africa award

PARALYMPIC athlete Anne Wafula Strike said she felt humbled after being honoured at the Women For Africa Awards at the weekend.

Ms Wafula Strike, who was born in Kenya and now lives in Harlow, was struck down with polio at the age of two. She was the first wheelchair racer from east Africa to compete in the Paralympics when she took part in the Athens Games in 2004.

In 2014 she was awarded the MBE in the Queen's Birthday Honours List in recognition of her contribution to disability sport and her involvement in charity work for people with disabilities.

On Saturday night she received a recognition award during a ceremony held at Kensington Town Hall.

"It was a great honour and humbling to have been thought of in such a great way," she said. "I dedicate this award to all those battling disability stigma and prejudices in society."

Ms Wafula Strike also dedicated the award to her late brother Bishar, whose funeral in Kenya she had attended a few days before the ceremony.

The Women For Africa Awards were started to honour women from African countries. The categories were chosen to encompass women in many different roles.

"Africa has over 40 countries and a large number of women who are unique and different in their own individual ways," said Ms Wafula Strike. "Women of all walks of life tend to face a lot of challenges in today's society and we feel it is time this is recognised."

"To receive a recognition award gives me more opportunities to continue to champion what I believe in – equality, fairness, and opportunity for all in society."

Parking wardens given cameras after assaults

Equipment will be activated when officers feel threatened

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

PARKING wardens patrolling the streets of Harlow have been issued with video cameras following a number of incidents in which officers have been assaulted or verbally abused.

The North Essex Parking Partnership, which is responsible for all street-based parking services in the town, said all its enforcement officers will use the body-worn cameras when they believe their safety is threatened.

However, it stressed the equipment will not be used to gather evidence for the purposes of enforcing parking restrictions.

EVIDENCE: All officers have now been issued with body-worn video cameras

Since April last year NEPP wardens have been subjected to a total of 66 incidents of violence and aggression, 28 of which were reported to police. But only nine of those resulted in police action because of a lack of evidence.

In other areas where officers have been equipped with cameras the number of verbal or physical assaults on officers has declined.

The cameras will be used to provide video and audio evidence when an officer is subjected to abusive behaviour. It will be made available to the police and used in any subsequent court case.

The NEPP – a partnership between Essex County Council and six district councils including Harlow – said the use of the cameras is governed by guidelines set out by the Surveillance Camera Commissioner's Office, a Government-appointed independent commissioner responsible for all guidance in relation to surveillance camera systems

Officers will only activate their cameras when they believe their safety could be at risk or they are likely to be subject to verbal or physical abuse.

NEPP chairman Robert Mitchell said: "The partnership takes the safety of its staff extremely seriously and will not tolerate abusive behaviour. The joint working committee decided to provide its officers with these cameras to ensure their protection and wellbeing at work."

He added: "Evidence from the cameras will also enable us to investigate any allegations made against our staff – which has not been possible previously."

Town's Scout and Guide groups report another rise in numbers

SCOUTING and Guiding in Harlow is proving an increasingly popular pastime among the town's youngsters with groups reporting a rise in members for the 11th consecutive year.

Numbers of Rainbows, Beavers, Brownies, Cubs, Scouts and Guides have gone up by 12 per cent and there are now 550 boys, girls and adult volunteers involved across the town.

District Commissioner for Scouts Toni Mitchell said: "The reason we are growing is that we provide the types of activities young people want to do. Scouting provides more than 200 activities from abseiling to zorbing, with cooking, first aid and hiking somewhere in between."

Harlow Scouts has recorded the biggest growth in Essex and almost a third of members are girls, which represents an all-time high.

Nine-year-old Lily May said: "We went to the Science Museum in London to renew our promises. I felt proud to be at such a huge event with all of the other members of the district."

Volunteer Ashleigh Gosnell, 18, added: "I find being in Scouting is very rewarding and would recommend it to anyone.

"It has helped me develop leadership skills that I don't think I would have picked up without being a volunteer and it looks great on my CV."

"It has also given me lots of confidence and made it easier at interviews."

Bikers angered by crackdown on unauthorised rideouts by council

Between March and May this year Essex Police received 121 calls about motorbikes, quad bikes, pit bikes and mopeds being ridden illegally or in an antisocial manner in Harlow. This compares to 74 during the same period last year.

Cllr Ian Beckett, who has raised concerns about antisocial behaviour in his Bush Fair ward, said: "We needed to look at lasting solutions because we don't have the resources. It's about what we will and what we won't tolerate. We wanted to send the message that antisocial behaviour will not be tolerated."

The council statement added: "Concerns are being raised by Harlow residents about persistent unauthorised gatherings causing a nuisance and antisocial behaviour, and the council, supported by the police, had to listen and act."

Two petitions have been launched and hundreds of people have taken to social media to criticise the decision. Gavin Prior, a motorcyclist from Cheshunt who has launched a Facebook group against the ban, said: "It criminalises the law-abiding biking community. It's penalising the wrong people."

The injunction also aimed to target a growing problem of groups of people creating a nuisance by riding bikes illegally on the streets, public highways and on green spaces.

The council has also written to all parents or guardians of Year 11 pupils and above as well as attending school assemblies.

Meanwhile, police are patrolling hotspot areas in the town, seizing bikes being ridden illegally and issuing warning notices under Section 59 of the Police Reform Act 2002.

Petrol stations are also being urged to crack down on petrol being sold to under-16s.

Temporary district commander for Harlow Paul Maleary said: "Essex Police fully supports the injunction held by Harlow Council. This clarification statement makes it clear that neither Essex Police nor Harlow Council intend to target those persons engaged in lawful activity."

Fire sparked by charging laptop damages family's council house

Residents lose possessions and will be out until August

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A FAMILY was forced to flee their home because of a fire which started when a power socket overheated while it was being used to charge a laptop computer.

Great-grandmother Patricia Savill and five members of her family have been moved into alternative accommodation by Harlow Council following the blaze, which broke out in their council home in Ram Gorse on Sunday, May 15.

"My granddaughter Ashleigh came downstairs from her bedroom where she had been on her laptop and she said she could smell smoke, said Mrs Savill, 71. "She had only been downstairs for two minutes but suddenly there was smoke everywhere.

Flames

"There were all these flames coming from behind her door. Then everything upstairs started catching alight."

Mrs Savill, her daughter Sarah, 44, and grandchildren Ashleigh, 25, Ethan, 17, and Mollie, 12, are now living in a two-bedroom flat in Arkwrights, along with Ashleigh's three-year-old son Malachi.

The fire destroyed furniture, decorations and electrical items, including a television and games console. The upstairs bedrooms and bathroom were badly damaged and there is no longer any power to the property.

The family have been told they will not be able to move back into the property until August.

Although many photos and personal items survived the blaze, the items that were destroyed were not covered by insurance.

WARNING: Patricia Savill with grandson Ethan and granddaughter Mollie

"The fire was going for about 20 minutes before the crew got it under control," said Mrs Savill, who has lived in then property for 45 years. "When it was happening I was feeling quite calm, but I do not know why. We all spent the night sleeping in the sitting room and that was fine, but it was hard moving out.

"Malachi just burst out crying when he saw the house as it is now. His room is right next to Ashleigh's but luckily he was sleeping downstairs as the room was being repainted. Otherwise he might have been killed.

"It is fine [living in Arkwrights] but I just want to get back home.

Everything has to be thrown away."

Mrs Savill said she wanted the incident to serve as a warning to others not to leave their laptops unattended while they are being charged.

"I am just thinking of all the people out there who use a laptop and. I want to say to them 'don't leave it charging on its own'. Everybody does it.

"I think we were lucky. Nothing of any real value has been destroyed and we still have each other. Everything else, like clothes, we can buy back.

"I found a birthday card for Malachi that had not been damaged. I cried when I found it and saw that it was still intact."

Academy appoints new primary head

A HARLOW primary school run by the Burnt Mill Academy Trust has appointed a new head.

Freshwaters Academy announced on Monday that key stage one assistant headteacher Teresa Avey has taken over from Marios Solomonides, who has taken up another role within BMAT.

Ms Avey has been a teacher at Freshwaters for seven years and is an experienced member of the senior leadership team.

"She has been at the heart of every development the school has made to improve outcomes for our pupils," Mr Solomonides told parents in a letter.

"I am confident she will excel at leading the school in its continued improvement."

Mr Solomonides joined the school as deputy head teacher in January 2012 before being appointed head in January 2014 following its conversion to an academy.

"During this time our school has come so far," he said. "Attendance and punctuality of pupils has improved, the percentage of pupils attaining the expected levels in reading, writing and maths has grown from 52 per cent to 79 per cent, and the academic progress that most pupils make across the school has also increased to excellent levels."

Limited vision over junction

SIR, Cllr Rodney Bass' foolish and myopic responses to residents' concerns is aptly summed up in his own words, "frankly we're not going to take any notice" (Star, May 12).

By revealing that, despite being cabinet member for infrastructure, his vision for such a major project as a new M11 junction – which has strategic importance for the whole region, will influence thousands of lives and have a major impact on health – is limited to no further than the Essex border.

He says he doesn't know the view of Hertfordshire County Council. This is staggering admission. For a project of this size and impact not to be fully mapped out at this stage is a dereliction of duty by ECC.

Having spent well over £50m on developments to no good effect in the east of the town, they are intent on cramming 70 per cent more traffic into an area that already gridlocks and is overcongested.

The current traffic causing congestion is trying to get from the east side of town to the west in the morning and out again in the evening. Cllr Bass seems blind to the consequences of the promised 10,000 jobs being created by the move of the Public Health England to the former GSK site to the west of the town. The fact is that the figures for traffic flow add up to a total car crash and those for the business case simply do not exist. The need is to compensate for the failure to build a major north-south road to the west of the town, a premise on which the town was designed.

A southern bypass from the current M11 junction to access the Pinnacles area to the A414 near Eastwick and a northern bypass to cope with access to the industrial/business centres of Edinburgh Way and cope with the inevitable eventual development of Harlow North would solve the problems.

The whole cost of a junction 7a and associated roads could be saved and used more productively.

If a southern bypass were planned, businesses, especially around Elizabeth Way, would respond and the business park could be further developed.

If the experiences of residents in the east of the town and of commuters travelling in from the M11 over the past 20 years or so are anything to go by, the track record of the county council has been spectacularly poor. How can we believe that things are going to get better?

East-west links and motorways are of such importance that the matter needs to be taken out of the hands of County Hall.

Edward Vine
Fenton Grange, Harlow

Roads cannot take any more

SIR, Cllr Rodney Bass extols the virtues of a proposed M11 junction 7a but has he ever left his cosy office to travel in Harlow between 7am and 9.30am and from 3.30pm to 6pm?

If he had he would see the amount of traffic that tries to get through Harlow in the mornings and out again in the evenings. The roads are gridlocked yet he proposes to put even more traffic onto these roads. Sheering, Old Harlow and Church Langley cannot take any more.

The route should be to the north side of Harlow in a direct line to the A414, thus taking traffic away from Harlow instead of through it.

Richard Irwin
Black Lion Court, Old Harlow

Don't ignore bigger picture

SIR, The Star reported on the plans for a new M11 junction at Harlow but as far as I can see the only change is the addition of a separate roundabout to create a dumbbell junction.

The rest is pretty much as seen before other than a three-lane road will be used. I would have thought that history has proven that three-lane roads are at best a compromise and at worst downright dangerous.

To paraphrase from the article, investment in the town's road network is necessary. Yes, of course it is; we have a whole host of roadworks afflicting our journeys currently and a multitude of huge potholes as well as serious neglect towards the upkeep of the current M11 junction.

The worst part of it is the continued blinkered view towards a northern bypass. I can't understand how a major infrastructure project can be planned without looking at the bigger picture rather than just selfishly thinking about our town.

To state that we don't know the view of Hertfordshire County Council proves how short-sighted this scheme is or appears to be.

A case for the northern bypass is clear in that it would remove traffic that does not need to pass through Harlow and put it on a direct route around, thereby freeing up the congested routes through the town including along the A414.

Please can I ask all parties involved in this project to take a step back, think properly about the bigger picture and take some extra time to make the correct decision.

Until this junction is complete I guess we will have to put up with the dangers of the traffic lights causing severe queues on all routes to junction 7.

The majority did not vote

SIR, The comments of local politicians on the election results show they have learned nothing.

The leader of Harlow Council claims residents have backed Labour on local issues. No they haven't as 68.5 per cent of those entitled to vote didn't do so. Of those who voted, more withheld a vote for Labour by voting for one of other parties. In only three wards did the winning candidate get an overall majority so in eight wards the elected councillors represent a minority of those who actually voted.

There are claims of knocking on doors. Which doors and what were they doing? I suspect it was a matter of trying to get their own vote out rather than engage in any meaningful political dialogue, let alone engage in some sort of political education to inform the electorate as to the real issues which face local democracy.

I didn't see a single poster let alone any political material which would have stimulated the electorate into identifying the issues and challenging the candidates on policies that might address the real problems we face.

Two years ago I challenged councillors to back a campaign of political education without getting support from any party. After the election of Jeremy Corbyn last year I wrote to the local GMC of the Labour Party asking for support and have yet to receive a reply. When Mr Corbyn visited Harlow it was to a private meeting open only to selected members of the party.

Councillors need to be reminded that they are not members of a select club keeping a tiny percentage of the public happy whilst supporting a coalition of selected members of the executive, supporting non elected officers in carrying out central government policies.

Local government is meant to represent the wishes of the local community and to ensure that policies are adopted which will meet those needs, to ensure those who work for the council carry out those policies and to ensure, along with the MP, that the national government facilitates such policies for the local area.

That is what local democracy demands.

Dennis Nadin
Willowfield, Harlow

Don't abstain from EU poll

SIR, It is surely a disappointing result that the local election earlier this month prompted only a 31.45 per cent turnout among Harlow citizens. This effectively means that two-thirds of the town shared no view or interest in the governance or running of our town.

I would not consider having the support of a community if I only secured this level of support.

I have raised petitions over the years and know that while all of us have a view, recording our feelings seldom is recognised by our voting efforts and subsequently abstain involvement.

The EU referendum will be the biggest opportunity any of us will have to share our views and feelings. This is an opportunity to redirect our government to do what we wish rather than continue with ideals, policies, practices and the massive layers of laws and administration that controls us all, to be reviewed or changed or be content with.

We know if we, our families, friends and neighbours are better off now. We know if we appreciate what the global world and what technology has brought us. We know if we can see a healthy future, prosperity and fulfilment for our young and we know what we all experience in society today.

I lost family members during the wars and have spent most of my life fighting for fairness for all of us. The opportunity to vote on this critical issue, which will effect and impact all of us, is the single most important vote any one of us will ever have so please take it.

Whether you vote to leave the EU or wish to stay in the EU is your choice. I would like to ask us all to share our voice, to see on the news that 100 per cent of Harlow voted and to show the UK that Harlow has a voice, of which we are proud and care for the future of our community.

No chance to enjoy garden

SIR, I have a lovely garden in which I would like to relax, unwind and listen to the birds sing. However, I can't do this because of the constant noise of underage kids flying around on motorbikes.

They have absolutely no regard for children and parents playing on the field or pedestrians walking along the cyclepaths around the area. They don't even have any regard to their own safety as they speed around without crash helmets.

What are their parents thinking? Probably not a lot as they obviously have little respect for their own children.

Where are the police? It's such a shame that this town is sinking faster and faster and no-one seems to care anymore.

Bus shelters on wrong side

SIR, For a number of years I campaigned to get new bus shelters for Little Parndon, for raised kerbs for access and road markings indicating bus stops.

Earlier this year the new shelters were welcomed by local bus users but now the bus company has reversed the daytime route for the buses so all the shelters are on the wrong side of the road.

It has been reported in the national press that there are plans to build a multi-million pound spaceport by 2020 for launching tourists into space. All I want is a regular bus service from Little Parndon to the town centre.

At Harlow Town station it is necessary to stand in the bus lane to read the arrival times screen as it is impossible to do so in the sunlight.

Several years ago I met Essex representatives on the spot who agreed it was unsatisfactory and said it would be moved into the bus shelter.

We waited 40 years to get half a bus station – shelters shut at 7pm – so when will the other half be built and when will out-of-hours travellers be able to use the waiting room and other facilities.

Presentation to Child of the Year stars

THERE were smiles all round when the winners and runners-up of the Star's Baby and Child of the Year competition were presented with their prizes.

Earlier this year parents were given the chance to take their children along to the Harvey Centre to be photographed. All the pictures were then posted on the Star's website and readers were invited to vote for their favourite.

The first prize of a large canvas print of their winning photo was won by seven-month-old Alfie Mason, of The Fortunes, Harlow.

The runners-up, who received smaller canvas prints of their photos, were Kacie Enright, 16 months, of Halling Hill Harlow; Lilly Hughes, 2, of Vicarage Wood, Harlow; Ricky, 3, and Robbie, 5, Woolridge, of Turnors, Harlow, and Harvey Driscoll.

They were all invited to the Harvey Centre on Friday to receive their prizes from Star editor Ken Morley and centre manager Bryan Young.

Tenant's anger at order to fill in puddle pond

Water feature provides pleasure to residents

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

A COUNCIL tenant has been ordered to remove a wildlife puddle pond she created more than six years ago.

Maureen Powell, 63, of Latton House, built the feature in a communal garden for the enjoyment of all the residents living in her block.

But Harlow Council has now told her that the water feature will be removed and she will be billed for the cost.

Bigger

"There are bigger potholes in the road than this," fumed Ms Powell, who said the puddle is six inches at its deepest point and just two inches deep at its shallowest.

She added: "We just wanted something nice and some to be proud of."

"It's things like this that I think is why Harlow has gone down hill."

"The council don't want us to feel like it's our home. They want it all their way."

Ms Powell was told she had 14 days to fill in the pond or foot the bill for it to be done.

"I just can't understand why they want it to go after all this time. It makes no sense," she said.

SANCTUARY: The wildlife puddle in the garden of Latton House

"I understand that we didn't get planning permission but they haven't offered an alternative. It's just 'we're taking it out'."

"Everyone who walks past always comments about how nice it is."

Latton House contains properties for council tenants over the age of 55. It faces Latton Common.

The residents have undertaken various improvements to the communal gardens including laying a lawn and installing benches, all at their own expense.

"It's just petty," said Ms Powell. "We're just want the area to look nice."

Wildlife puddles offer animals and birds a source of water and food and residents living in Latton House have reported seeing foxes, hedgehogs, frogs and birds including blackbirds, robins and sparrows.

A spokesman for Harlow Council said: "We are meeting with the resident on Friday to discuss a way forward."

Public response to £400m science hub

HUNDREDS of people attended an exhibition of plans by Public Health England to create a £400m science hub in Harlow.

The three-day showcase was held at Harlow Leisurezone, with PHE representatives on hand to explain its proposals to develop the former Glaxo-SmithKline site at Pinnacles and answer questions.

As well as information about the hub and artists' impressions of what it could look like, the exhibition included timescales for the project and the employment, training and education opportunities it will bring to the town.

Programme director Dr Tim Harry said: "The support and interest shown by the Harlow community at the exhibition was extremely encouraging. We received valuable feedback from a variety of people that we will definitely be taking on board."

"Everybody's feedback is important and welcomed, whether it's positive or about specific concerns people may have. PHE wants to build strong relationships with the Harlow community which will last for a very long time."

Further public consultations will take place later this year before PHE submits a planning application to Harlow Council.

Any community groups, organisations or businesses wanting to invite a PHE representative to discuss the project should email pheharlow@phe.gov.uk.

Conman fails in bid to cut jail sentence

Fraudster pocketed thousands from scam

Court Reporter

star@hertssexnews.co.uk

A SMOOTH-talking fraudster who fleeced trusting investors out of their savings in a precious metals scam deserves his tough sentence, top judges have ruled.

Oliver Anthony Slater, 28, of Mill Street, Harlow, used aggressive cold-calling techniques to persuade sometimes elderly punters to part with their hard-earned cash.

One victim, Bernard Todd from Cornwall, told how he ploughed nearly £100,000, most of his savings into the fraudster's scheme.

Mr Todd had hoped that he and his wife could use their profits to put their granddaughter through university, the Appeal Court in London was told on Thursday.

However, the couple are now faced with the threat of having to sell the home they had built specially for their retirement.

The court was told Slater and an accomplice conned 10 victims in all, four of whom suffered devastating losses.

Trusting punters came to grief after Slater cajoled them into ploughing cash into a business selling rare earth metals. He used a valuable customer database stolen from his previous employer, to target potential clients, employing cold-calling and hard-selling techniques.

But the supposed rare metals being traded were in truth often worthless.

Slater had been a successful derivatives dealer and begun trading the rare metals in good faith. But the scheme later became fraudulent and he lavished some of his ill-gotten gains on the trappings of a luxurious lifestyle.

Slater was jailed for four years and four months last October after he admitted conspiracy to defraud and illicitly downloading the client database. However, his legal team argued the sentence was far too harsh and way out of line with a suspended sentence received by his accomplice.

But Mr Justice Globe, sitting with Lord Justice Hamblen and Judge John Wait, said Slater's role was more prominent and his accomplice had striven to repay much of the cash.

"We are satisfied that no right-thinking member of the public would think there is any legitimate sense of grievance arising from the sentence passed on Slater," the judge concluded.

"In these circumstances the appeal must be dismissed."

CHEQUE MATES: Brian Weavers presents the donation to hospice representatives

Friends indeed! Oddfellows present cheque to hospice

MEMBERS of the local branch of a friendship organisation have presented a cheque for more than £2,500 to St Clare Hospice.

Every year The Oddfellows, one of the country's largest branch-based friendly societies, nominates a charity to receive the proceeds of its fundraising activities.

The branch also regularly makes donations to charitable organisations including the RNLI, Street Pastors and the Salvation Army.

The cheque was presented to two representatives of the hospice by by deputy grandmaster Brian Weavers at St John's Arts and Recreation centre in Old Harlow earlier this month.

After the presentation members of the branch were given a talk on the work of the hospice and how the money donated by The Oddfellows will be put to use.

Driver hit with hefty penalty for ignoring speeding fine

A DRIVER who failed to pay a £100 fine for speeding has been landed with a bill for £1,920.

The 52-year-old woman from Harlow did not respond to a notice of prosecution after the Volkswagen Tiguan for which she was listed as the registered keeper was caught on a safety camera.

The camera detected the vehicle travelling at 14 mph over the 40mph speed limit on High Road, Thornwood Common, shortly after 7.20pm on April 24 last year.

Reminder

The woman failed to identify who was driving the car within the specified 28-day period or act on a reminder which was sent to her home address.

She appeared at Southend Magistrates Court last Tuesday and was ordered to pay a £1,500 fine, £300 costs and £120 victim surcharge.

Adam Pipe, casualty reduction manager for Essex Police, said: "I hope this sends out a clear warning to other drivers who find a Notice of Intended Prosecution come through their letterbox."

"Anyone who ignores the notice will face court proceedings and could find themselves left with a hefty fine and/or points on their driving licence."

Commissioner draws up new five-point plan to tackle crime

THE new police and crime commissioner for Essex has vowed to crack down on anti-social behaviour.

Roger Hirst, who took over from Nick Alston earlier this month, has set out a five-point action plan which also includes domestic violence, violent crime, gangs and organised crime and to make the Essex force more accessible.

"To deliver these priorities I will work closely with chief officers to drive the modernisation of the force," he said.

Technology

"We must ensure our police have good technology to enable them to complete tasks whilst out in our communities, remaining visible and accessible to local people."

Mr Hirst said it was also his aim to double the size of the special constabulary and ensure they are fully integrated into policing teams across the county.

Finance is one of the biggest challenges facing the force and Mr Hirst said it needed to make the best use of limited resources.

"We will also continue to develop a plan for making the best use of police stations," he added. "We need to be ensuring we're not wasting money on repairing old buildings and using the proceeds of sales to help deliver the technological infrastructure that a 21st century police force needs."

PEDAL POWER: Graham Ellis is preparing for his next charity challenge

Graham's keen to keep his bike wheels turning

Veteran fundraiser ready for next challenge

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

A YEAR after cycling across the United States of America, a fundraising grandfather has chosen a ride closer to home for his next charity challenge.

Graham Ellis will embark on his 36th test of endurance next month when he sets off on a 450-mile trek across the width of the British Isles from Ireland in the west to Norfolk in the east.

"I do something every year and I wanted to keep that going," said 66-year-old Graham, of Elmbridge, Harlow. "I am feeling confident and I am looking forward to it. I have never been to that part of Ireland."

"Because I did a 2,909 mile ride from San Diego to Florida last year I am slowly making my way around the world. I guess the next logical step would be the Netherlands but I am not promising I am doing that."

Graham, who was awarded a British Empire Medal for his services to charity, will start the ride on June 10 and hopes to be complete it in 13 days. He has set a target of raising £5,000 for Great Ormond Street Hospital.

He said: "One of our sons was at Great Ormond Street and I want to support their services which need £90m a year to keep running. I think it is a very worthy cause and I want to raise money for them again."

Graham's wife Sandra will drive parts of the route ahead of him to act as a mechanic and provide moral support. They will stay in bed and breakfast accommodation along the route.

The couple have three children and five grandchildren and Graham is still the senior partner of his own chartered surveyor firm, Graham Ellis Associates.

Since 1981 he has raised more than £500,000 for various charities by completing a challenge every year. These include climbing Machu Picchu, trekking 100km across the Sahara Desert, completing the Three Peaks Challenge and running the London Marathon... and he is already looking ahead to next year.

"I have got a couple of ideas," he said. "I am interested in cycling from Harlow to Barcelona. I am always looking to do something else. I am at retiring age and it's a good way of keeping me fit as there is a lot of training to do. There is also the incentive to raise money for charity."

For now he is planning for his next cycle ride. "I have been doing 50 miles every week in training. Sandra and I will both take a sat-nav so when she is driving ahead she can see where I am. We have it all mapped out."

It has already been a successful year for the Ellis family after Graham's 15-year-old grandson Georgie won the ABA England junior boxing title with an eye on competing in the 2020 Olympics in Tokyo.

Congratulations are in order.

You've found the woman of your dreams...
...now you might just be looking for a diamond that will rock her world.

Experience is terrifying ... I felt so vulnerable

I'M trying to find a second sock. My vision is blurred and my hands are numb. I rifle through a pile of what appear to be bedclothes, desperate to find the sock.

All that I can hear is static and what sounds like an out-of-tune radio. All that I can see are dark outlines, with occasional flashes of strobe lighting. All that I can feel are my poor feet suffering from the worst pins and needles I have ever experienced.

I have stepped into the shoes of someone with dementia.

Someone stands next to me giving instructions but I can't make out any words, only loud noises.

Suddenly, I have the sock in my hand, holding it aloft like a prize. But within seconds it's snatched away from me.

Recent figures suggest dementia is a condition feared more than cancer, and now there's a tour that lets people experience what it is really like to have dementia.

Senses

The Mobile Virtual Dementia Tour takes away people's primary senses, to let them experience the fear and frustration dementia sufferers go through on a daily basis.

It is hoped the experience, which is being delivered to all staff at Princess Alexandra Hospital as part of National Dementia Awareness Week, will show that a person with dementia is not challenging or aggressive.

Falls co-ordinator Christopher Tuckett said: "By using the virtual dementia tour to train our staff we are ensuring what, as carers, we need to do to ensure we offer dementia patients the best care possible."

"By the end of the week we trained up to 120 staff members and going forward we plan to make it part of our routine training schedule for all staff."

"Although it is not required by law, as a trust we are going to make it a standard training requirement."

Invited to take part in the tour, I was a little sceptical about how someone could experience what it is like to have the neurological condition and nervous about how

TASKED: A member of staff takes part in the dementia tour at Princess Alexandra Hospital to better understand the condition. Right, Star news editor Gemma Gardner takes the tour and far right, falls co-ordinator Christopher Tuckett

What is dementia?

- Dementia is a common condition that usually occurs in people over the age of 65.
- It is a syndrome, or group of related symptoms, associated with an ongoing decline of the brain and its abilities.
- This includes problems with memory loss, thinking speed, mental agility, and language understanding and judgement.
- People with dementia can lose interest in their usual activities, have problems controlling their emotions and find social situations challenging.
- They may lose understanding and empathy as well as seeing or hearing things others do not, causing them to make false claims.
- Last year there were 850,000 people with dementia in the UK and according to the Alzheimer's Society, there will be more than one million dementia sufferers in the UK by 2025.
- An early diagnosis can help people with dementia get the right treatment and support, and help those close to them to prepare and plan for the future.

I might react.

Participants wear gardening gloves to take away their sense of touch and their sight is impaired with glasses, simulating macular degeneration and presbyopia – blurry near vision.

Before the tour starts I'm told I won't be able to ask questions while I'm immersed. Then I'm kitted out in the gloves, spiky insoles, dark glasses and headphones, and without any other words, somebody flicked a switch on my headphones and I was guided in to the room.

The insoles in my shoes replicate the pins and needles caused by peripheral neuropathy where nerve endings die in the hands and feet. It's like walking on shards of glass and I gingerly make my way around the room, inadvertently adopting the shuffling gait of someone who is living with dementia.

I can't make out the faces of anyone in the room, leaving me disoriented and scared.

My headphones reproduce the kinds of sounds heard by a person with dementia. There is laughing and talking but nothing is clear.

People living with dementia hear at a slightly higher volume to those without the condition. What they lose is the ability to differentiate between sounds. Everything becomes chaotic. With the headphones on I'm lost in a world of white noise.

The whole 10-minute experience is terrifying; I felt terrified.

Champions

The PAH Trust is committed to developing its services for dementia patients and has trained 12 dementia champions with a further nine to qualify this summer.

This is a six-month training programme which aims to give staff, who have volunteered, enhanced knowledge so that they may lead changes in their own areas.

In total the trust will have 21 champions trained by June but the plan is to continue this programme on a yearly basis.

The Princess Alexandra Hospital Trust has also recently signed up to John's campaign, which allows carers of dementia patients to stay overnight with them.

This is to ensure dementia patients do not deteriorate as a result of feeling alienated in a strange environment.

Andy Dixon, matron for quality improvement and dementia lead for the trust said: "I think the week was a great opportunity and as a team it was really interesting for us to see how we could help to raise awareness."

"The feedback we received from staff about the training was extremely positive."

"Almost everybody who took part said the insight they got about how dementia patients feel really changed their perspective and would definitely influence their approach to caring for people with dementia."

Clean-up teams bring a shine to station facilities

THE waiting areas and toilet facilities at Harlow Town station are set to sparkle as train operator Abellio Greater Anglia starts a spring clean of its busiest locations.

An updated programme of regular cleaning will be undertaken at the 29 stations which account for more than 80 per cent of the passenger footfall across the network.

Three teams will focus on the fortnightly cleaning of toilets, waiting rooms and glazing in addition to usual cleaning regimes as part of the company's programme to ensure station facilities meet the high standards of cleanliness.

Last year Abellio Greater Anglia employed an additional 56 cleaners, the majority of whom were given the task of ensuring that litter is removed from trains and that the on-board toilet facilities are clean.

It also invested £30,000 in new cleaning equipment.

Customer service director Andrew Goodrum said: "Creating a clean and pleasant travelling environment is a key franchise commitment and this additional investment demonstrates our determination to make a real difference for our customers."

Outdoors fundraiser

THE GO Outdoors superstore in Harlow will be holding a bank holiday fun day on Monday to raise money for St Clare Hospice.

There will be various games and children's activities from 11am-3pm, and a raffle with the top prize of a Calibre Two Two mountain bike worth almost £400.

Britain Stronger In Europe

by Joel Charles
campaign chairman

HARLOW is a diverse and exciting community to live in and we have benefited greatly through our membership of the European Union.

In the East of England alone, European investment has created or protected 7,500 jobs in the past five years.

Better life opportunities for all ages in our town are linked to how, as a country, we maintain influence globally by continuing strong diplomatic and economic ties with existing partners. Today Britain's place in the world is clear and defined by being a member of the European Union.

We are the fifth largest economy in the world and enjoy access to the biggest trading block – the European Single Market – worth £500bn a year. Some 300,000 jobs in the East of England are linked to our trade with the European Union. The Bank of England has warned that if we leave, the shock could spark a deep recession.

It is important for our local and Should we stay...

With just four weeks to go until the in-out EU referendum, campaigners on both we are giving both sides in Harlow - Britain Stronger In Europe and Vote Leave national economy that Britain's status in the world remains undiminished.

BREMAIN: The European Parliament building in Brussels

Our new town was built by a wartime generation who, during the Second World War, protected Britain's global position in the world. Their willingness to stand shoulder to shoulder with European allies is an important reminder to all of us about the historical commitment we have maintained with our neighbours on the other side of the English Channel.

One of the most important influences in my life was my grandfather. He moved with my grandmother to Harlow after the Second World War and, as a bricklayer, built homes for local people. Away from the referendum campaign hype, our new town history and the members of our families who shaped it can help guide us to a decision on European Union membership. Their decision during the 1940s to be an ally of Europe is an important lesson from history.

The path to increased prosperity, security and a new-found sense of purpose for a country or local community is not through isolation.

Many people in Harlow are genuinely undecided and confused by all the arguments in this referendum campaign. What we do know is that staying in a reformed European Union will mean legal guarantees to protect the pound, an end to British participation towards ever closer union and our financial services will not be over-regulated. There will be curbs on migrant benefits and a continuing opt-out from the quota scheme for asylum-seekers.

Our Prime Minister has changed the balance of power in Europe, protected British sovereignty and reigned in the ambitions of the European Commission. We also continue to reap the economic benefits membership brings. For every £1 we put into the EU we get almost £10 back through increased trade, investment, jobs, growth and lower prices.

The success of Harlow's local economy is, in part, linked to our continued European Union membership. A vote to remain on June 23 will protect jobs, our local economy and preserve what wartime generations in Harlow fought to ensure for all of us.

Vote Leave

by Andrew Johnson
campaign chairman

BACK in 1975 Britain voted to enter a trading organisation known as the European Economic Community. It was supposed to be an organisation to facilitate trade between European neighbours.

In the intervening 41 years the EEC morphed into a European superstate whose powers extend from forming foreign policy to the wattage of lightbulbs we are allowed to use.

On June 23 every citizen in this country has the opportunity to cast a once-in-a-lifetime vote to leave the European Union. Anyone under the age of 59 has never been consulted on their views before.

There are no end of scare stories from the other side, but Vote Leave is determined to put the positive case to leave and wants to explain why it will be good for our country.

Voting to leave the EU is not a vote to stop trading with the EU, nor is it a vote to become isolationist. Only by voting to leave can we make our own trade agreements with every country in the world.

BREXIT: The Houses of Parliament in London

If we leave the EU the Germans will not want to stop selling us cars, the French won't want to stop selling us wine or the Belgians chocolate. There will be a reasonable timescale to put trading agreements in place so we will not stop buying goods from some countries and selling our products to others.

Only a vote to leave will save us the £350m a week that we currently send to Brussels, money that would better be spent in this country on schools and hospitals.

Only a vote to leave will allow us to set our own sensible immigration policy and take back control of our borders.

Only a vote to leave will allow us to deport terrorists and preachers of hate who wish to bring us destruction rather than being barred from doing so by European judges who tell us it's against their human rights.

Only a vote to leave restores sovereignty to our parliament and our courts rather than unelected European cronies dictating what Britain must do.

We are the fifth largest economy in the world, a member of the G7 and G20 with a seat on the UN Security Council, a key member of both NATO and the Commonwealth and the centre of the world's financial services economy. We will never be isolated even if we leave the EU.

Whatever government may be in power, our children and grandchildren deserve the right to be brought up in a country where our own politicians make the laws. German eurocrats have no right to make laws for our children, just as we have no right to make laws for Danish children.

We have a fantastic opportunity to walk tall in the world again, to take back control of our borders and our laws, to save £350m per week, to be able to open trade negotiations with every country in the world, to say no to a European superstate and a European army.

Britain has every opportunity to be great and we can demonstrate that loud and clear on June 23. Vote leave and take back control.

Harvey Centre to host a tea party for 90-year-olds

AS the country gears up for next month's celebration of the Queen's 90th birthday, Harlow residents who are also 90 this year are being invited to a special event.

The Harvey Centre will be hosting an afternoon of celebrations to coincide with those taking place at Horse Guards Parade in London on Saturday, June 11.

Residents celebrating the 90th birthday this year are being invited to a traditional afternoon tea supplied by Tesco and Couzens Bakery. There will also be special gifts, ballroom dancing and entertainment from Harlow Choir.

Free flags will be handed out to shoppers so they can join in the spirit of the occasion and take a selfie next to cardboard cutouts of the Queen.

For children there will, with tiara and crown making, face painting, a 'pin the nose on the corgi' competition and a treasure hunt around the centre.

Bunting

The centre will be decorated with bunting supplied and created by the Phoenix Centre and lit in the colours of the Union Flag.

Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young said: "We are really excited to be hosting our very own Royal tea party."

"It's a great way for the whole family to celebrate the achievement of our Monarch and members of their own families who have achieved this milestone birthday."

"It will be an afternoon of celebrations for all generations."

Family and friends who want to nominate their favourite 90 year-olds for the tea party can do so on the Harvey Centre's website, Facebook and Twitter pages.

Ship is an ocean giant

WHAT'S got 23 swimming pools, 20 restaurants, a park with 10,000 plants and 52 trees, robot bartenders, climbing walls and a 100ft-high slide?

The answer is the world's largest cruise ship which sailed into British waters last week.

The Harmony of the Seas cost a staggering £800m and took two-and-a-half years to build.

It took 2,500 workers a total of 10 million hours to complete the enormous vessel after work began in September 2013.

It measures more than four football pitches in length and can carry a whopping 6,780 passengers and 2,100 crew members.

The ship, which is 18 decks high, has set new records for length, width, and weight.

It arrived at Southampton ahead of its maiden voyage to Barcelona in Spain later this month.

Footballers score for charity

Former professional and semi-professional stars take to the pitch for Macmillan

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

CELEBRITIES and lookalikes held a kickabout at Harlow Town Football Club's stadium to raise money for charity.

Phil Morton, 65, organised the game at Harlow Arena on Sunday to raise money for Macmillan Cancer Nurses to honour his brother Bob, who lost his battle to the disease last year.

Mr Morton, who lives at Mandells in Epping, said: "It went terrifically, I did not know how many would turn up but we had a nice crowd."

"Money is still coming in but so far we have raised more than £4,000, which surpassed my expectations as I only thought we would raise £1,500."

Trophy

In a game of two halves Rod Stewart's team Ex Vagabonds battled back from two goals down to draw 3-3 with Iron Maiden XI and teams chose to share the trophy.

While Rod and Iron Maiden members were not present the celebrities wearing shin pads included TV comedian Ralf Little, actor John Alford and former Arsenal defender Chris Whyte.

Mr Morton, who acted as linesman, added: "Bob was looked after by Macmillan nurses who were fantastic. I felt (holding the fundraiser) was right for what they had done."

"I would not rule out doing it again."

Iron Maiden tour jet makes flying visit

HEAVY metal band Iron Maiden's Boeing 747 jet landed at Stansted Airport on Sunday as the group continue on their The Book of Souls world tour.

The plane, which is called Ed Force One, will stay at Stansted before heading to Germany on Thursday.

M11 Junction 7a and widening of Gilden Way

Have your say by taking part

We are proposing a new M11 J7a and the widening of Gilden Way to improve journeys and reduce congestion for road users. The proposed scheme will also support planned housing and economic growth in Harlow and the surrounding area.

As part of this consultation we are holding the following events to give the public the opportunity to view plans, talk to us about any concerns and give us your feedback.

Georgie shows a head for heights

A VOLUNTEER for St Clare Hospice has climbed to the top of the iconic O2 venue in London to raise funds for the charity... at the age of 81.

Goolmoir Cantel tackled the 52-metre high climb earlier this month after looking for a new fundraising challenge.

"I heard about it from some of the nurses at the hospice," she said. "They had done it and said it was amazing so I thought why not give it a go."

"It was great fun. I am not afraid of heights so I just found it exciting. You have to wear non-slip boots, a harness and are attached to a metal rail by a clasp to keep you safe."

"Next time I want to abseil down the Shard... but first I will have to persuade them to let me!"

Goolmoir, or Georgie as she is known to her friends, has been a hospice volunteer for four years and helps out in the inpatient unit.

"I started volunteering at St Clare's in 2012 after completing my degree in voluntary sector studies," she said. "I feel very passionately about the hospice movement and how important the care is for our community."

So far she has raised more than £1,000 from the climb. To make a donation visit her Just Giving page at www.justgiving.com/fundraising/Goolmoir-Cantel.

Charity challenge is a feat of endurance

Pals hit by snowstorm during coast-to-coast walk

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TWO businessmen who successfully completed a coast-to-coast walk across England have raised thousands of pounds for charity.

Matt Dixon and Heath Greenall spent 12 days walking from St Bees on the west Cumbrian coast to Robin Hood's Bay near Whitby on the east, a distance of almost 200 miles.

Along the way they passed through some of the country's most scenic landscapes including the Lake District, the Yorkshire Dales and the North Yorkshire moors.

So far estate agent Matt, co-founder of Geoffrey Matthew Estates, and Heath, chairman and managing director of the Gates car dealership, have raised more than £19,000 for the Macmillan Cancer Support and Cancer Research UK.

"It's been a fabulous experience," said father-of-one Matt, 44, of Puffers Green, Harlow. "The terrain was different at each stage, from majestic moors and woodland to the hill walks with breathtaking views. When you're on the move you realise just how beautiful our countryside is."

During the course of the challenge the pair experienced varied weather conditions, including heavy snow storms in the mountainous parts of the

TREK: Left, Matt Dixon and Heath Greenall prepare to set off on one of the stages and, above, back in Harlow

Lake District between Rostwaite and Patterdale. As a result, they were advised to avoid higher ground, adding an extra 15km to the route.

"We saw a beautiful sunset at Patterdale, which we just had to take a photo of," said Matt. "Images like that really were all the motivation we needed to keep going."

When they arrived at the finishing line they were greeted by Matt's father, who welcomed them with a bottle of champagne.

The pair used social media to provide their followers with a daily update of their progress, sharing daily photo and video updates on Facebook and Twitter.

"The best part of doing these walks, apart from raising money for charity, are the people you meet along the way," said Matt. "The ones we met were welcoming and kind, digging deep in their pockets to raise more funds for the cause. To me, that's what life is all about."

With Matt and Heath now signatories of the official Coast 2 Coast achievement book, they have thanked all the individuals and businesses who have helped to support their fundraising effort.

Exhibition to offer help on coping with loss of vision

A CHARITY which supports blind and partially-sighted people will be holding an exhibition in Harlow today (Thursday) to offer information, advice and demonstrations of equipment.

Support 4 Sight said anyone affected by sight loss including families, friends and carers is welcome to attend the free exhibition at Harlow Central Library.

It will feature a range of low vision equipment, all of which can be tried at the event. Experts will be on hand to answer any questions.

Among those taking part will be Dolphin Computer Access, Sight and Sound Technology, Calibre Talking Books, Vision Aid Technology, Guide Dogs, British Wireless for the Blind Fund, Optelec Services, Enhanced Vision, and Associated Optical.

Organiser Paul Atkins, said, "Losing your vision is extremely difficult to cope with and this exhibition is one of the ways we demonstrate that there is help available."

"The information, support, equipment and advice at this event will be extremely useful to anyone affected by sight loss."

The exhibition runs from 10am to 2.30pm.

Thousands respond to crossing plan

MORE than 47,000 people responded to a consultation on proposed routes for a new Lower Thames Crossing.

Plans to build the first new road crossing for 25 years are considered to be necessary to unlock massive economic benefits for the region.

Nearly 30,000 people responded to the consultation online, with a further 3,700 people completing a paper questionnaire and some 13,000 sending emails or letters.

The responses are now being analysed before a final decision on a preferred route is made by the Government.

Highways England consultation manager Martin Potts said: "We set out to reach as many people as possible to let them know about our plans and to seek their views. The response has exceeded our expectations."

"The route for a new Lower Thames Crossing is a massive decision and it is vital we get it right."

"I am very encouraged at the significant number of responses that we have received as they will really help us to make the best possible recommendation to government about the route that this vital new road link should take."

The new road could be ready by 2025 and would open up new areas for economic growth, relieve congestion at the existing Dartford Crossing and improve the road network by providing an alternative link for motorists wanting to cross the Thames.

HOMES & GARDENS > BATHROOMS

Create a room

ARE you living the bathroom dream? The ultimate space for a wash-and-brush-up should also double up as a spoiling home-spa for relaxing – and your room is sadly lacking if it's not offering both.

Before you take the plunge on a revamp though, it's wise to consider the look you wish to create. It's all too easy to get submerged in the diverse range of styles available, from traditional to chic contemporary, and a whole lot in-between.

"In general, UK bathrooms are small and getting smaller, so it's vital to make use of every inch of space," says Robin Levien, international designer at Ideal Standard.

"One of the most popular contemporary looks is modern and minimal, but not clinical. We're seeing a desire for a clutter-free room, where storage solutions keep everything, from towels to toothbrushes out of sight until they're needed. This helps make the area a peaceful sanctuary."

Luxury touches – underfloor heating, LED lighting and anti-steam mirrors – are rapidly becoming must-haves, and technology is increasingly playing a role, enabling lighting, sound and water systems to be programmed and controlled remotely.

Choose from one of three looks, for a bathroom to boast about...

TROPICAL ZONE

Create your own little bathing paradise with sultry, exotic decor...

"The bathroom continues to be a key element in homes, playing a multi-purpose, multi-function role. It's an oasis of escapism and relaxation, a place for reinvigoration, transformation, and even somewhere to pose, ponder and play," says Levien.

"Increasingly, this room's borrowing decorative elements more traditionally found in the rest of the home and picking up influences from the catwalk.

"There's a current trend for dramatic dark colours and pattern on walls and floors, which with good lighting, can actually make a space seem bigger, as well as delivering that boutique-hotel feel."

DECOR TIP: Floral patterns and bright botanical colours, like dark purple, rouge and matte greens, are soon set to feature strongly, as a Seventies-vibe makes its mark in bathrooms. But avoid going too retro – an avocado green suite is never a good look!

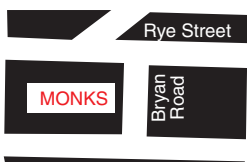

SPLASH OUT: Drummonds' free-standing Spey Bath can be bespoke-painted to feature a lush tropical design, from £2,975 (ex. VAT).

Follow the theme with a palm leaf Abyss & Habidecor Feuille Bath Mat, £198, Amara.

to recline and relax

Alternatively, create a more purse-friendly far-away setting with a wall done up with Indigo Tropical Wallpaper, £80 a roll, Gillian Arnold, and accessorise with Aqua Tropical Print Towels, currently reduced from £10-£30 to £8-£24 each, Debenhams.

Real tropical plants, or faux ones from MiaFleur, whose Artificial Areca Palm branches are £16.95 each, will play up the hot-house theme.

SAFE HARBOUR
Blue and white's a classic and timeless choice for bathrooms, because it's fresh, crisp and evokes a relaxing coastal retreat...

"It's the subtle finishing touches which make a big difference, so consider taps and fixtures and fittings as the perfect way to refresh an existing sink or bath, and think about these carefully when choosing a new bathroom style," says Chris Taylor, design expert at tap and shower specialists, Bristan.

"Metallic finishes – gold, brass and copper, through to brushed steel – are popular this year. For a classic look, use a chunky mixer spout to create sleek elegance combined with traditional style. Add contrasting blue nautical-style accessories for a striking, stylish scheme."

DECOR TIP: Hotels treat furniture as interchangeable for the sleeping, living and bathing areas of a room. Keep that aesthetic with pieces which don't shout 'bathroom', whether it's a rug, dressing table or bathroom chandelier.

SPLASH OUT: Refresh a bathroom by updating taps – far cheaper than a full refit. Bristan's comprehensive selection includes a handsome chrome-plated brass Flute Tall Basin Mixer, £210. New handles can also give a lift, and Chloe Alberry has an unrivalled collection.

Supermarket chain George Home makes it easy to work a nautical look. Its range, mostly available in stores only (with some items online) features a new blue and white Tattoo collection (think anchors, sailing ships and seabirds), which includes a Shower Curtain, £8; Bath Towel, £6; Striped Hand Towel, £4; Soap Dispenser, £5, and Tumbler, £3. For more 'ship ahoy' touches, pile up a trolley with their Porthole Mirror, £7; Chevron Print Baskets, £7 for set of two, and Sailing Boat Ornament, £15.

NEW WAVE
Natural, organic materials are up-and-coming stars in the bathroom...

"Today's best looking bathrooms feature luxurious natural materials and finishes," says James Lentaigne, Drummonds' sales and marketing director.

"Cast iron and crisp white enamel, substantial brassware, artisan tiles, wood and wood veneers, beautifully figured marbles and plenty of glass," he suggests. "Trends are moving away from fitted furniture towards individual free-standing pieces. For a contemporary feel, choose simple and streamlined pieces."

"There's a new focus on lighting – the best schemes incorporate a variety of light sources, all controlled individually to suit mood."

DECOR TIP: Traditional 'brick style' White Metro Tiles, £19.50 per square metre, create a striking look. Lay them in a herringbone, geometric pattern using a dark grey or black grout for a contemporary edge, and play up a natural theme on the floor with Cornish Driftwood Light Tile, £4.95 each of £55 per square metre, Topps Tiles.

SPLASH OUT: Dark wood furniture makes a statement and John Lewis' free-standing Bali range is brilliant value: Tallboy, £195, and Mirrored Double Wall Cabinet, £295.

Its roomy Two Tone Laundry Basket, £69, could be perfect for towels or laundry.

Red Candy's Umbra Hub ladder starts from £100. Clutter's the enemy these days, so pop toiletries in Chevron Bamboo Baskets, from £38 each, MiaFleur.

Dunelm's bursting with bathroom bargains, including a Purity Hamper, from £19.99, and a 'Calm' Wood Hanging Word, £7.99.

HOMES & GARDENS > Bennbrook Windows profile

Bennbrook - the clear choice

WHEN Chris Brooks and his brother-in-law, Gary Bennett, decided to set up Bennbrook Windows, they were firm in their belief that first-class customer service would be the core of their business.

Now, many years later, as the business continues to go from strength to strength and as their loyal customer base testifies, quality products and personal attention to detail continue to be very much at its heart.

Bennbrook Windows is very much a traditional family company.

"We always ensure our customers are treated with respect. We know we have built Bennbrook on reputation and will continue to do that," says Chris.

Based at Esgors Farm Industrial Estate in Thornwood, Bennbrook Windows offers a great deal more than its name suggests.

Choose from an impressive range of products, including double and triple glazing, glass units, coloured composite entrance doors, bi-folding doors, French and patio doors in uPVC, aluminium and timber, plus conservatories, porches, fascias and soffits, and block paving, too.

The company is happy to cater for both the public and trade and claims 'no job is too big or too small'.

Quality is paramount and you'll find only the best energy-efficient products at very reasonable prices.

Skilled fitting teams work to the highest standards, treating your home with respect and care.

All work comes with an additional insurance-backed guarantee and, as a FENSA registered company, Bennbrook Windows also has superb reviews as a 'Which Trusted Trader' and Checkatrade member.

Whatever glazing work you require, why not give these experts a call? They have the experience and expertise needed to ensure your dream construction or renovation project can become a reality.

Bennbrook Windows is open Monday to Friday, from 9am until 5pm, and by appointment only at the weekend.

HOMES & GARDENS > WINDOW DRESSING

Blinds offer a clean and simple way to dress your windows - but measuring up can be tricky. Here we offer some advice...

Have blinds faith

1. Blinds can either be fitted inside the window recess or outside the window, which is called exact fitting, so start by deciding which look you prefer.

In some cases, you'll only be able to do one or the other. Remember, roller blinds take up less space when rolled up than Roman blinds, so this may be a consideration.

2. The advantages of recess fitting are that the blind is made to fit the window and works with its proportions, and the window sill and wall around the window can still be used.

The disadvantage is that light will flare around the edges of the blind, so you'll also need to fit curtains outside the window if you want to cut out all the light.

3. The advantage of exact fitting is that you can give the impression of a taller or wider window, either by fitting the blind well above the window or choosing a blind that's wider than the window.

Exact fitting also leaves the window completely clear when the blind is up. The disadvantage is that a blind fitted outside the recess takes up wall space and may be in the way of furniture etc.

4. For recess fitting, measure the width of the recess in three places - the top, middle and bottom.

Measuring in centimetres, take the smallest measurement and round it down to ensure the blind fits inside the recess.

TOP TIP

Use a good, rigid metal tape measure to measure up for blinds - cheaper tape measures bend too much and should be avoided. If you're measuring inside the window recess, a digital laser measurer, such as the Bosch PLR15 (£37.95, John Lewis), will give you extremely accurate results at the press of a button.

The length of the blind, also known as the drop, is from the top of the inside of the window to the window sill.

Again, measure this in three places and use the smallest measurement, although you can add more to the drop of a roller blind because it doesn't all have to be unfurled.

5. For a blind hanging outside the window, decide how far you want it to extend to the left and right and measure between these points.

In general, we suggest leaving around 10cm above the window recess and at least 7cm on each side.

Then decide on the best place for the blind to end - on or just below the window sill often works well.

CITIZENS ADVICE HARLOW – TRUSTEE OPPORTUNITY

Citizens Advice Harlow is a charity created to serve the local community, providing advice and information on a wide range of subjects.

We have an exciting opportunity for forward thinking and energetic people to join our Board of Trustees. We would ideally like to recruit two skilled people to complement our diverse and enthusiastic current members who are responsible for governance, taking a high level overview of the service and its place within the community. The Board makes long term decisions about strategic direction and has overall responsibility for the management of the service.

We are looking for people with strategic vision, independent judgement and a willingness to give time and commitment to being a trustee. The post is voluntary but will provide you with a great deal of satisfaction and would be ideal for somebody looking to further their experience at this level. All reasonable expenses are reimbursed.

The main responsibilities include: attending 6 board meetings per year (held in Harlow); actively contributing to setting policy and strategic direction; defining goals and evaluating performance; monitoring compliance with the governing document and ensuring that the advice needs of the local community are being met.

For further information and full details of this exciting role or for an information conversation regarding the opportunity please contact AJ Sanger via email in the first instance: training@harlowcab.cabnet.org.uk

DANCING and singing group Makin' Steps will bring the magic of cinema to stage in new show To the Movies.

Featuring performers aged five to adult, the Harlow performing group will present audiences with the full range of their creative talents inspired from musicals and soundtracks.

Potter Street Community Centre will host the five performances from June 2 to June 5, which organisers say provides enjoyment for the whole family.

Street dance, ballet, tap and modern dance routines will blend around singing and scenes from musical theatre.

Dance teacher Margaret Wright said: "To the Movies features the high energy, first class singing and dance routines audiences have come to expect from Makin' Steps over the past 30 years.

"With all numbers inspired by some of the most loved and iconic movie soundtracks, the show is sure to cater for the whole family.

"We are excited to show what we have been working on for the past five months."

Margaret added that a new purpose built stage has been created in the community centre to transport audiences into the world of film.

"We are so very proud of our pupils and love giving them a platform to show what they have been learning at the school," she said.

"I have a great team of teachers, technicians and parents who all help to create the show."

"If you love music and film soundtracks this is the show for you," added Margaret.

"We have everything from Mary Poppins to Deadpool and with nearly 50 different film soundtracks included in the show, we are sure there is something for everyone."

Makin' Steps will perform To the Movies at Potter Street Community Centre, in Potter Street, Harlow, from Thursday, June 2 to Sunday, June 5. There will be performances Thursday to Saturday at 7pm. Matinee shows will be held on Saturday at 3pm and Sunday at 1pm. Tickets cost £12 for adults and £7 for children. For bookings and more information contact (01279) 304937.

Youngsters learn musical lessons from Canadians

YOUNG musicians from Harlow Rock School were given an alternative education from Canadian band Double Experience.

The self-confessed nerdy rockers performed songs at The Youth Hub, in Harberts Road before answering questions and signing autographs for the inspired youngsters.

Martin Elven, Rock School roadie, said: "The opportunity to get a real, touring band to come in and tell our young people what it's like trying to carve out a career in one of the hardest industries around was too good to pass up.

"Add in the fact they were humble, down to earth, and spoke to the students in a manner they could relate to, meant the evening was a great success."

Three-piece Double Experience told the group how they defied calls from parents and teachers to get a job and went to tour the world and release three albums.

Ian, Brock and Dafydd from the band are currently touring the UK and dropped in on their fans to perform a short set of tracks from their LPs Unsavd Progress, One Big Quicksand and 721835.

They also talked about life behind the scenes, covering everything from social media, taxes and budgeting.

Town festival is

THE diverse nature of the town is celebrated through art in Harlow Festival 2016 which begins this weekend.

Organised by Harlow Arts Council, the events combine the best the town has to offer in drama, music, art and food, running from Friday, May 27 to Sunday, July 3.

"The arts play a big role in the lives of many people," said Nicky Bowland, festival co-organiser and member of Harlow Arts Council.

"The vast majority of performers at Harlow Festival are residents of the town and it is huge for both the audience and the performers.

"The experience of performing is great for them, especially the younger ones who just want to play.

"For an audience seeing something live is incomparable, there is nothing else like it. It is a connection that people can make."

The 21 events bring together a range of groups established in Harlow's cultural scene including drama group Moot House Players and musicians from Harlow Rock School.

Harlow Festival encapsulates Heart 4 Harlow Festival on Spring Bank Holiday weekend while a highlight will be the variety of performances at The Art of The Garden Party in July.

Nicky said the aim of the events is to raise awareness of the arts across the town, increase audience numbers and bring together the arts community.

Some of the events were pre-planned by members of Harlow Arts Council, while others have been created especially for the festival which is now into the sixth year.

Nicky continued: "It is a mixture of things. Some of the acts are part of the Harlow Arts Council.

"The council started in the 1960s. It has been around for a long time. It is a way of helping promote local arts groups and create opportunities to share a collection of their work.

"More than anything we are in an age where people are finding it's difficult to promote their stuff and we try and help promote people and provide events to show their work. It is nice to think, as an artist, you are in a larger connected group."

She added: "Gaining funding can be quite a struggle and nobody has a lot of money to spend, but we can help with that."

Harlow has a strong tradition in many kinds of art, and the festival reflects this diversity with events celebrating everything from light to beer and from jazz to carved stone.

Nicky explained that providing a diverse range of venues helped the event take on an interesting and accessible form for families to enjoy and engage with.

"We try and put in some family activities," she said. "A large part is the garden party that we have been running for four years now.

"There are a number of events that are free or don't cost very much at all. Normally we have someone like the U3A Choir performing who are not out there performing all the time.

"Members get that opportunity to perform somewhere a little bit different. And it should be nice doing it outside, if we get some good weather!"

She added: "Everything is reasonably costed and a lot of events are free. It is supporting the arts community. I think for an audience it is an opportunity to see something different in some alternative venues.

"The festival has been in various forms for around six years. What we are very keen to do is to expand. It became apparent that there is a lot of enthusiasm to work together as a community. We want to make it so the festival becomes even bigger and we can bring in more acts."

Take a trip to Neverland

HARLOW Playhouse will be transformed into the magical world of Neverland as RARE Productions perform Peter Pan – The Musical.

As the UK's largest youth musical theatre company, RARE has performed everything in their time from Les Misérables to Annie.

But Dave Thomson, RARE Marketing Manager, said adapting JM Barrie's classic novel is allowing all involved to discover their inner child.

"We just brought Peter Pan into our roster. The Harlow show will be second and we will go on to perform in three more of our areas," he said.

"The rehearsals have been going very well. The lad playing Peter Pan is Adam Dance. He has the most remarkable tenor voice. He is absolutely brilliant."

The plot sees Wendy Darling and her two brothers transported from their home in Kensington Gardens to Neverland where Peter has adventures with fairy Tinker Bell and his gang of Lost Boys.

The gang get up to a host of magical adventures which culminates in a battle with the evil Captain Hook.

Wendy is played by Emily McCormick, the director is Wendy Wilde and Jonny Smith is the musical director.

RARE will perform on the evenings of Thursday, June 2, to Saturday, June 4, with an additional matinee on the Saturday.

The musical theme is a novelty for Peter Pan, but Dave said this is one to sit back and enjoy rather than sing along to.

"Peter Pan is usually performed as a pantomime," said Dave, who lives in Ware but is originally from Southport.

"This was a version based on the Barrie story. It has been re-created (with songs) by George Styles and Anthony Drewe. It is the best musical score I have come across for some time now.

"There is a lot of music in it. I would imagine it would be 50-50 with dialogue. There is no real dancing." He added there would be one moment of audience interaction during Tinker Bell's moment of truth towards the climax of the play.

"It has been a real challenge for RARE. We have had to design and build a set," Dave continued.

"It is quite a challenge to stage it. Our wardrobe team has created completely new costumes for this show. They have literally had to create costumes for the lost boys, the pirates and everyone else. We don't buy anything in and we make all our own."

Dave said Adam was a perfect fit for the lead role as the 19-year-old has experience of taking the lead role of Jean Valjean in RARE's performance of Les Misérables at Hertford Theatre.

"We audition for all our shows. We advertise locally and hold open auditions. Ages range between eight and 21. There is a cast of just over 100 young people.

"We have been using Harlow Playhouse for six or seven years and we have been going as a company for 12 years. We have a close working relationship.

"We do two shows a year there and we hire the theatre for the week. We do all of our rehearsals there too.

Dave added: "Amber Wallis is the choreographer. A few years ago she was playing Wendy in the Harlow pantomime of Peter Pan. It has come full circle."

"We always get very good sales in Harlow. As a youth theatre company we accept that two thirds of the audiences are made up of people who are in some way related to the cast members.

"We always play to good houses in Harlow and get a good reception. It is the real Peter Pan story with a twist but I cannot tell you much about that!"

■ RARE Productions perform Peter Pan – The Musical at Harlow Playhouse from Thursday, June 2 to Saturday, June 4. Shows are at 7.30pm each night with an additional matinee on the Saturday show at 2.30pm. Tickets cost £10 to £15.

For bookings and more information call Harlow Playhouse on (01279) 431945 or visit www.playhouseharlow.com.

Guitar duo will make Harlow debut at ARC

AWARD-winning guitar duo Duo Resonance will be making their Harlow debut at the St John's Arts and Recreation Centre in Market Street, Old Harlow tomorrow (Friday).

Frédérique Luzzy and Pierre Bibault, who are based in Paris, have performed many international stages throughout Europe and the USA.

They have also played at festivals and shared the bill with world-renowned artists such as Odair Assad, Anne Sofie von Otter and the Itinéraire Ensemble.

The programme for their performance at the ARC will include pieces from their first CD, released in 2014, by Latin American composers Enrique Granados, Astor Piazzolla and Alberto Ginastera.

■ The lunchtime recital starts at 1.30pm, with homemade soup and artisan bread served from 12.45pm for £5. There will be a retiring collection at the end of the performance.

Jodie cuts the ribbon on new heaven for crafters!

THIS week, I was delighted to be invited down to the local Coopers department store to cut the ribbon for their new craft department.

I walked down the red carpet as the crowds lined the streets and cheered me on OK, well that's not quite true, it wasn't as glam as all that, but my little craft club 'The Cottage Crafters' were there in full attendance because we are over the moon about the new craft department, as will the rest of our local crafters be when they discover it for themselves.

Craft shops are few and far between in our area, and many craft shops struggle to remain open in today's climate.

While many people do most of their shopping online, there are still a large percentage of crafters that prefer to browse in shops.

Not only is this because they like to see the quality of whatever it is they're buying, but also a lot of crafty ladies don't use, or have access to the internet.

So keeping our local craft shops in business is really important for the crafting community, as crafting is more than just a frivolous hobby for many people ... it is a form of therapy, and it brings relaxation and purpose to so many lives.

Coopers is really keen to make sure it supplies all the things your average crafter would need, so they even went to the effort of popping down to our craft club meeting to get our feedback, and find out what it is we would like to see on the shelves.

I have to say they've done a fantastic job - they now have a wonderful selection of wool, sewing accessories, fabrics, craft kits and magazines ... and there is much more on the way.

So thank you, Coopers, you've made the crafters of Bishop's Stortford very happy indeed!

Sentimental sequel

Alice Through The Looking Glass

FANTASY: (PG) 113 minutes
Director: James Bobin
Starring: Mia Wasikowska, Johnny Depp, Anne Hathaway, Helena Bonham Carter, Sacha Baron Cohen, Matt Lucas

Rleased in 2010, Tim Burton's descent down the rabbit hole of Alice In Wonderland was a triumph of eye-popping style and weirdness over substance.

Audiences didn't care about flimsy narrative and his quixotic journey of self-discovery became the second highest grossing film that year behind Toy Story 3, with box office takings in excess of one billion US dollars.

That's more than one billion compelling reasons for a sequel and, lo and behold, James Bobin replaces Burton at the helm for the madcap time-travelling adventure, Alice Through The Looking Glass. Screenwriter Linda Woolverton, who adapted the first film, largely abandons Lewis Carroll's 1871 novel, introducing an eccentric new character – Time – in order to facilitate some trippy excursions through the past and present and reveal how the decapitation-happy Red Queen (Helena Bonham Carter) came to be cursed with an oversized noggin.

Like its predecessor, the sequel spares no expense with the visuals, inducing eye strain, motion sickness and perhaps even the odd headache in 3D and Imax.

The paucity of characterisation is even more pronounced in this second helping, tethering much of the nonsense to Johnny Depp's wide-eyed theatrics as the Mad Hatter.

Alice (Mia Wasikowska) has successfully buckled her swash as captain of her father's ship, The Wonder, but when she returns to dry land, the plucky heroine learns that her mother (Lindsay Duncan) has sold the deed to her embittered former suitor, Hamish Ascot (Leo Bill).

Defiant in the face of adversity, Alice takes a tumble through a mirror and plummets into Wonderland where she reunites with the White Queen (Anne Hathaway), Tweedledee and Tweedledum (Matt Lucas), Absolom the Caterpillar (voiced by Alan Rickman), The Dormouse (Barbara Windsor) and the White Rabbit (Michael Sheen).

They reveal that the Mad Hatter (Depp) is in an emotional funk because he's convinced that his family, including his milliner father Zanik (Rhys Ifans), did not perish in the Jabberwocky's inferno.

To set the Hatter's mind at rest, Alice agrees to steal a device called the Chronosphere from its guardian, Time (Sacha Baron Cohen).

"Do try not to break the past, present or future," advises The Cheshire Cat (Stephen Fry) as Alice slides back and forth through time to learn the startling truth.

Alice Through The Looking Glass is a topsy-turvy jaunt too far for Lewis Carroll's iconic characters.

Wasikowska reprises her role as the spirited adventurer who believes that "the only way to achieve the impossible, is to believe it is possible".

Depp, Cohen and Bonham Carter compete to see who can scene-steal with the greatest abandon.

Bobin's film feels considerably longer than 113 minutes.

If only the Chronosphere was real and we could fast forward through the sentimental goo of the final section.

WIN A PAIR OF TICKETS TO EXPERIENCE

Disney PRESENTS

THE LION KING

IN LONDON'S WEST END

Set against the majesty of the Serengeti Plains and to the evocative rhythms of Africa, Disney's award-winning musical will redefine your expectations of theatre.

Brilliantly reimaged by acclaimed director Julie Taymor, Disney's beloved film has been transformed into a spectacular theatrical experience that explodes with glorious colours, stunning effects and enchanting music. At its heart is the powerful and moving story of Simba - the epic adventure of his journey from wide-eyed cub to his destined role as King of the Pridelands.

This legendary production has been experienced by over 80 million people around the world and is in its 17th year at London's Lyceum Theatre.

HOW TO ENTER:

To be in with a chance of winning a pair of tickets to Disney's THE LION KING, answer the following question:

How many people have seen the production around the world?

A: 70 million B: 80 million C: 90 million

Simply text HMS LION plus your answer (A, B or C), your name, postcode and email to 60400. (E.g. HMS LION A Jane Smith SG1 3RY [smith@aol.com]). Remember to include the spaces!
Entries must reach us by midnight Friday 3 June 2016.

Standard Trinity Mirror plc rules apply, see newsprizes.co.uk/houserules for details. Please obtain the bill payer's permission before entering. By using this SMS service you are agreeing to receive occasional SMS messages from Trinity Mirror plc informing you of promotions, offers and services. Text will cost £1.00 per text plus one standard network rate message. Service Provider: BBA Digital Limited KT18 5AD. Tel 0333 335 3351. You will not be charged for receiving these messages and may opt out by texting STOP to the originating number. Prize draw is syndicated across selected Trinity Mirror plc newspaper titles. Prize is as stated and no alternatives will be offered. Winner/s will be the first correct entry/ies drawn at random after the closing date and will win a pair of tickets to see The Lion King. Winners will be contacted by the email provided. Should you have any queries please call 01892 239100.

T&Cs: Sixteen prizes available consisting of one pair of tickets to Disney's The Lion King at the Lyceum Theatre, 21 Wellington St, London WC2E 7RQ. Tickets are valid for Tuesday - Thursday evening performances only, from Tuesday 28 June - Thursday 1 September 2016. Tickets are strictly subject to availability and non-transferable. Any additional expenses incurred over and above the prize element must be covered by the winner. The cost of travel is not included in the prize.

Suzuki's new Baleno offers sensible motoring

TESTED Suzuki Baleno

David Ward

It might seem strange for a car maker to come out with a new model that to all intent and purposes is a rival to one of its existing cars – which is what some motorists may think about the arrival of the new Suzuki Baleno supermini.

This new five-door hatchback on the surface looks set to compete against the Suzuki Swift hatchback as well as Ford's Fiesta, Skoda's Fabia and VW's Polo but bosses here are confident it "offers something different" and they will sell (at least scheduled to sell) 3,500 of the Indian-made Baleno models here in a full year.

A closer look at the make-up of the Baleno – last seen on these shores back in the late Nineties – clearly identifies differences with the Swift being the more sportier and the new and slightly longer Baleno far more practical with oceans of space inside and keenly priced too for motorists with a family.

It has a slightly longer body too than the Swift with what some observers would say "sensible styling" and not quite having the sporty looks of the Swift – but it's far from dull looking, yet admittedly not exactly a head-turner.

This Baleno has two major advantages over other current supermini models in that it has bags of interior space – probably the most spacious of any in its class – and it has outstanding levels of standard equipment on board (even the entry-level SZ-T at a bargain price of £12,999) making it exceptionally good value for money.

These two advantages will be crucial factors for the 80 per cent of individual, retail buyers who will go for the Baleno and in both cases they won't be disappointed either because it's a practical, spacious and well put-together family hatchback that's also affordable to run.

Only available as a five-door the Baleno also has a new Suzuki three cylinder, one-litre turbocharged petrol engine under the bonnet which is a little gem providing a good, wide spread of torque (i.e. pulling power) and competent enough acceleration through a really delightful light yet positive five-speed manual gearbox.

The 109bhp engine revs freely and is smooth and responsive when required and for a three cylinder unit is noticeably quiet too compared to some rival three cylinders units in other makes of cars at this level.

With accurate steering and a decent turn of speed this one-litre makes the car agile and a pleasant driving experience for whoever is behind the wheel.

Now, in performance terms it won't turn up any trees as the old saying goes, but overall it feels competent enough when being driven, if not startling, and ideal for town, urban and country driving rather than outright motorway speeds.

Suzuki say it will accelerate from 0 to 60mph in around 11 seconds, has a claimed top speed of 124mph and will return a combined fuel consumption figure of 62.5mpg.

On a morning's test run my Baleno clocked up 49.5mpg without any trouble and crucially for the driver wanting some mid-range overtaking speed simply use the gears up and down sensibly and it responds and feels comfortable enough when making such moves.

The suspension is a little on the soft side and there's a bit of a body roll when cornering fast but not in an uncomfortable kind of way but for the type of driving this car offers it won't disappoint motorists.

Obviously those drivers looking for a more sporty performance may well want to stick to the Swift or go for one of the quicker supermini rivals that will naturally be more expensive.

Keeping the Baleno in the lane of sensible, practical and cost-effective motoring it's CO2 is a commendable 105 g/km, it sits in insurance group 11E and in VED band B.

With a new lightweight, highly rigid body structure on a new platform this Baleno gives motorists a glimpse of what we can soon expect from other Suzuki models in respect of lighter body shells – the basic shell structure is 196kg meaning Suzuki is the first car maker to beat the 200kg mark in this supermini sector of the market.

For buyers the more important concern is what do they get for their money when it comes to standard equipment levels and on the surface even the entry-level is certainly highly impressive.

This SZ-T model comes with six airbags, 16-inch alloy wheels, air conditioning, sat nav, DAB radio with bluetooth, rear privacy glass and front electric windows. That's quite impressive for a car at this level and gives advantages over most rivals.

Move up to the SZ5 (£13,499) and there's even more standard features such as automatic climate control, rear electric windows, 4.2-inch central colour trip display, LED rear lights, adaptive cruise control and radar brake support. Again weighing up the opposition and it's a sound package for individual buyers.

Like all new Suzuki cars the Baleno comes with a three-year/60,000 mile warranty plus a year's AA cover and servicing on the 1.0-litre Booster turbo petrol engine versions is either annually or at 9,000 miles.

Verdict: Value for money is the key here when weighing up the purchase price and the high level of standard equipment. Practicality is another word that comes to mind in describing this new Baleno.

The gutsy performing one-litre engine is great making it an easy car to drive if not particularly as snazzy or exciting as some of its more expensive rivals while inside the seats a comfortable making for a pleasant ride whatever the road conditions.

World Juniors aim – Can do

THE World Junior Athletic Championships in Poland is the top target for Harlow's 800m runner Canaan Solomon.

The Harlow College student, who was part of the Team GB U20s 4x400m relay squad at the prestigious Loughborough International meeting last weekend, hopes to compete in Bydgoszcz from July 19-24.

Canaan, 17, raced in the 800m at Loughborough, clocking a fantastic 1min 50.5sec.

At Watford last Wednesday in a British Milers event, he was second in a high class field, running a personal best 1.49:07.

He will look to achieve the qualifying time for the World Juniors (1.48:05) at Watford this weekend.

Alemite seal brilliant double

ALEMITE U15 boys completed an historic double by lifting their Mid Herts Rural Minors League title just a week after winning a cup final.

In an amazing match at Paringdon Sports Club, table-topping Alemite were 3-0 down but fought back to beat second-placed Bury Rangers in a winner takes all match.

George Hopwood, Danny Ireland and Kai Bowers started the fightback to level the scores.

Liam Walker then grabbed the winner with two minutes left.

The previous week they won the Herts & Essex Cup final.

Medals feast for HAC juniors

HARLOW Athletic Club juniors returned with medals from county championships.

Mohamed Tambedou won the Herts U20 100m in a personal best (PB) time of 11.12sec.

Meanwhile, at Chelmsford in the Essex Champs, Beth Harryman won the U17 women's high jump and now holds both the indoor and outdoor titles.

Charles Tankeh ran the 100m in 11.02 for the gold medal.

Regan Lawrence set a new fastest time of 12.65 in the semi-final and took silver in the final.

James Petty ran a wind-assisted 100m second in 13.26.

Polly Woods set a PB as she threw the hammer more than 35 metres for second and Lewis Harknett took 30 seconds off his previous best 3000m time (9min 30.04sec) for silver.

There were also bronze medals for Teale Cunningham (1.65m U17 high jump); Polly Woods (10.18m triple jump) and James Petty (200m 27.73 PB).

Harlow's Richard Chiassaro took first place in the 100m at the National Wheelchair Championships at Bedford.

The 34-year-old Harlow Athletic Club member, called up to the Great Britain squad for the European Championships in the T54 category, produced a fantastic time of 14.32.

Adam Goldspink-Burgess (U23) didn't go lower than the string of personal bests he set at Stoke Mandeville in May.

Joe Brazier (U20) managed PBs in the 200m and 800m.

Thomas Miller set new season's best times and is closing in on PBs, while in the T33 category, Emma Alexander raced exceptionally well.

Hawks in hunt for next stars

THE Hawks are looking for the next Alex 'goal machine' Read and Layne Eadie as they recruit new players for the club's Academy programme.

Harlow Town are holding an open day at 10am on June 1 – and former Reading and Stoke player Ibrahim Sonko, now a key figure for the first team and academy coach, will be taking part in a special training session at The Harlow Arena to uncover the stars of the future.

He will be helped by Hawks boss Danny Chapman and new Harlow signing Billy Jones, who has taken on a full-time role and is youth development officer after joining from Gloucester.

Chapman said: "It's a massive opportunity I don't think the kids of Harlow realise how big an opportunity this is.

"Sonko, Billy and I will be running the course and the kids can play football with us. I don't think I had that opportunity at 16.

"Bill offers a lot of knowledge and experience and he will be running this with me. That was a big appeal for him."

The club is looking for recruits aged 16-18 who are looking to pursue a career in football or the sport and leisure industry.

The open day will last two hours.

Career opportunities include: Playing professional and semi-professional football; football coaching in the UK and abroad; sports management; leisure management; and sports development.

To find out more information about the educational aspect of the course, visit www.wearscsl.co.uk great season – why not take it to next year."

The experienced defender also gave an insight into how Harlow's tactical plan left play-off final losers Hornchurch out-classed in a 3-1 triumph.

He added: "If you look at the first half, they had nothing really. We knew the way they played and we stopped them running behind us. That was their main game.

"We were intelligent at the right time. Sometimes we didn't take the right option. It was a big game, everybody got a bit scared but we ended up doing well and that's all that matters."

Hafiz in injury blow as leaders grind out draw

Experienced Harlow batsman ruled out for six weeks

Shepherd League Essex League Division One

Harlow 237
Billerica 213-9

HARLOW'S hopes have suffered a massive setback with the news that key batsman Hafiz Yawar is out for six weeks through injury.

Mohammed Waqas, deputising for Hafiz (pictured right) at home to league leaders Billerica, and Alan Jones made a purposeful start to Harlow's innings.

After Jones (27) went, Waqas (22) soon followed, with the hosts now 51-2.

Rehman Ahmed and Ahmed Khawaja came in to bat but Billerica continued to take wickets, dismissing Harlow skipper Rehman for 45, caught attempting a pull shot, and running out Ubaid Kiani (1) to leave Harlow on 120-4.

Jon Perry (16) struck a couple of boundaries before giving a difficult caught and bowled chance to off-spinner Ross Poulton.

Khawaja was joined at the crease by Nicky Baxter, with the two left-handers seeking to increase the run rate.

Khawaja (54), having hit Poulton straight down the ground for six, was dismissed at a crucial time as he was caught on the mid-wicket boundary.

Good contributions from Baxter (26), Mustanser Meraj (20) and Mitch Howarde (18) saw Harlow reach 237, the hosts being dismissed in the final over.

Some fairly ordinary fielding by Billerica, in which they contrived to drop four or five catches, helped Harlow's cause.

In reply, Baxter got Harlow off to the perfect start, removing two of Billerica's top three in the first over lbw, both for nought.

When Mustanser dislodged David Hinnigan (14), caught at mid-wicket by Waqas, the league leaders were floundering at 16-3.

In gloomy conditions and light rain, with Harlow looking sharp in the field, Chris Tait and skipper David Houghton looked composed but their partnership of 57 was ended by Howarde who had the latter caught by Khawaja for 26.

Waqas, bowling in the finger-spin style of Sri Lanka's Ajantha Mendis, was baffling the batsmen and soon dismissed Tait (43) to leave Billerica on 98-5.

With the game evenly poised Poulton built a composed and seemingly decisive innings.

When Billerica reached 168 they were in control of the run chase and needed only 70 runs with five wickets remaining.

Mustanser's second spell, however, was to change the course of the match.

He bowled Lee Knight (17) and Poulton (78), before having Andy Smith (14) caught by Waqas. Lewis Aldred dismissed Adam Merchant (1), and at 205-9, the visitors were content to hold out for the draw in a pulsating game.

Mitchinson and Brenda Perrett were victorious in the Ladies Triples.

Barry O'Connor and Steve Mitchinson were runner-up in the final of the Essex Pairs.

Sylvia Bloomfield and Gill Mitchinson reached the Pairs semi-finals.

Finals day also took place at the Bush Fair club.

Peacock said: "It has been a very successful winter bowls season for Tye Green Indoor Bowls Club and congratulations go to all the finalists this year; not only at club level but at national and county level."

Holland rolls back the years but Town fall two runs short

Shepherd League Essex League Division One

Wickford 244-8
Harlow Town 243-8

NEIL GLADWIN paid tribute to century man Joe Holland as his Harlow Town side came two runs short of victory over Wickford.

Former Saffron Walden and Sawbridgeworth batsman Holland had struggled for form last year, but he has hit the ground running this season.

Skipper Gladwin said: "Joe is a genuine class act. He is looking magnificent at the crease and batting with him is a pleasure."

After winning the toss and batting first, Wickford were reeling at 11-2 and then 40-4.

However, Wickford danger man Dean Etchells (127 not out) ensured his side posted a decent total.

Town's Jamaican overseas professional Chris Powell (3-46) shone once again.

In reply, Town got off to a good start as both Shiraz Ali (35) and Ashley Alderson (20) batted well. Alderson's exit brought last week's centurion Holland to the crease and he showed his class and confidence, driving his first and third ball to the fence, in between a crisp cut shot for four.

Holland and Ali batted beautifully together, pushing the score along to 84 before Ali went. Fellow centurion from last week, Gladwin, joined Holland at the crease.

For the second week running the pair shared another large partnership (107), as Holland dominated the Wickford attack.

The skipper was bowled for 37 and this kick-started a collapse as wickets began to fall around Holland, as first Powell and then Scott Alderson were both given out lbw for six apiece.

Holland's departure after a superb 108 from 98 balls, left Town with two overs remaining, eight wickets down and needing 14 to win.

Tail-ender Mohammed Ali required a four off the last ball of the game to secure victory, but he could only notch two runs as the hosts were left frustrated by a draw.

Harlow's wait for Jones over

EXPERIENCED former Crewe Alexandra and Leyton Orient defender Billy Jones (above) has signed for Harlow Town.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman had been in talks with the left-footed player since March and had a gentlemen's agreement – as exclusively revealed by the Star – but Jones wanted to remain at Vanarama National North team Gloucester City until the end of this season to help them beat relegation.

The 32-year-old is a vastly experienced left-back with more than 300 Football League appearances to his name.

He has joined Harlow in a full-time role and will double up as youth development officer, helping Chapman to run the academy and oversee the many youth teams at the club.

On the pitch, Jones will play either at centre-half or left midfield – and Chapman was quick to pour cold water on rumours player of the year Layne Eadie would now be moving on.

"Layne is not going anywhere. He will be Harlow left-back for years," said the Hawks boss. "Bill will be a left-sided centre-half. I needed three centre-halves in case something happens."

After spells at Orient and Kidderminster, Jones moved to Exeter City where he scored 17 goals in 86 appearances, before a £65,000 move to Crewe Alexandra in 2007, for whom he played more than 70 times.

A clinical dead-ball specialist, he is set to take the free-kicks for Harlow in Ryman Premier next season.

Chapman said: "It's one level below Gloucester, but I don't think there's a lot of difference."

Sonko sees Cherries as Hawks' inspiration

SOME aspiring non-league teams might look to the likes of Stevenage and Wycombe Wanderers as the template of what can be achieved as they look to climb the league ladder.

But not Harlow Town's former Reading and Stoke City central defender Ibrahima Sonko – he's looking to Premier League Bournemouth as his inspiration for a Hawks promotion surge.

The former Senegal international has been a revelation over the last nine months as Danny Chapman's side made it fourth time lucky with promotion and victory in the play-offs.

Sonko, 35, who turned down a one-year contract at Scottish Premier League side Kilmarnock in October, has already agreed a contract to lead Hawks' pursuit of promotion in the Ryman Premier next season.

He is also motivating the future Harlow stars as academy coach.

Having watched Eddie Howe lead the Cherries from the brink of non-league football in 2009 to the Premier League in 2015, Sonko is clear how rapid, successive promotions can be achieved.

And he should know, having been a key man at Reading when the side reached the Premier League for the first time in the club's history, back in 2006.

He's not saying Harlow will be promoted to the Football League in three years' time, but is full of hope that the Hawks can now climb the non-league ladder.

He said: "To be successful you have to have desire – it is not a word, it is an act. You have to do it – and we did it."

And he stressed the side won't be battling relegation next term, like most teams who come up from Ryman North.

He insisted: "That won't happen to us – we are going there to make the play-offs. We are not going there to stay in the league."

"We have to use this like the way Bournemouth did. Bang, bang – we need the momentum. We have the momentum now. It's going to be tough, we are going to have better players coming in."

"We are going to have players interested in coming in. The challenges we are going to face, we are going to have to raise our game."

"We stuck to our plan [in the play-offs] and showed discipline and quality. Hopefully we can use this as a platform to do it again."

Sonko's performances last season lifted many players to a standard not seen before in their careers and he was at the heart of the club's record-breaking 12-match winning run this year.

Job done

He said: "When I started the season I wanted to get promotion and now it's job done. I'm happy."

"They counted on me to go up. We can look forward to next season now."

"Playing at a high level you need to be vocal. One thing is I am very vocal. Even at the top level you need to direct people. If you don't direct people they can make a mistake, it is only normal that I pass on [my advice]."

"Next season they can pass it on to other players."

Sonko was happy to sign his new Hawks deal, one of five who signed contracts for next term.

He joked: "Even if I don't want to be here I think [chief executive] Tom [Cunningham] and [chairman] John [Barnett] will make sure I'm here."

"I don't see myself going anywhere. I could go back in the [Football] League but I'm going to be 36 – it's going to be tough. I like it, the boys are great."

"I've had a great time and a
